

This rule and all that it entails puts an incredible amount of undo burden on flight instructors, especially those that make their living in that capacity. Its too complicated, too broad in scope and way too time-consuming for the average flight instructor to be able to consistanly comply with to the letter. I find it unacceptable.